Mayor's Report

Thank you to our Village. On Saturday, October 15, 2022 our Village elected a council for the next four years. It was a welcome return to an in-person All Candidates meeting, door-knocking, advance polling and election day voting without pandemic restrictions.

Once the voting concluded at 8:00pm our Village started the long-standing tradition of having candidates and their representatives observing the counting of the vote. The work done by our staff under the direction of our Chief Electoral Officer ensured confidence in the outcome for the candidates, their teams and, most importantly, for our community.

The democratic process is well-served when we have options. I want to offer my congratulations and welcome to our newly elected councillors: Joe Elworthy and Janet Ruzyski. To the re-elected council members, Carolina Clark and Liisa Wilder, I am very pleased to continue our work on behalf of Village residents. I offer my sincere thanks to Colm Cole for contesting the mayor position and to Ben Shoolestani for contesting the councillor position.

Once again, we can be very proud of our Village and the larger numbers who voted, our neighbours and friends. Voting demonstrates our commitment to community engagement and to each other. On the doorsteps people were interested and appreciative that we had an election which, in the final analysis, contributed to an elected council reflective of our Village. The respectful engagement, acceptance of different views and differences speaks well for the future of our community.

I look forward to working together with our council, and all the electorate, to meet our future challenges.

My door remains open – to listen, to learn, to lead collaboratively and to move forward together.

I am so proud to be your mayor again. I humbly accept the trust you have placed in me.

With thanks,

Jamie Ross

NEWS RELEASE

Village of Belcarra announces appointment of Paula Richardson to top spot

The Village of Belcarra is pleased to announce the appointment of Paula Richardson to the position of Chief Administrative Officer (CAO), effective November 1, 2022. Paula replaces former CAO, Lorna Dysart, who retired in June.

Following Lorna's retirement, the Village began an extensive recruitment process. There was a positive response to the posting, and a number of candidates were interviewed by Council. In the end, it was determined that Paula was the most suitable candidate to fill the position.

Paula has been employed by the Village since 2016 and has worked in an administrative capacity since that time. With the retirement of the former CAO and following a brief period when the position was filled by Dennis Back on an interim basis, Council appointed Paula as Acting CAO in early July. During her time in this acting role, she has demonstrated her ability to fulfill the responsibilities of the position in a very competent and professional manner. It was the opinion of Council that Paula represented the best fit for the position given her deep understanding of local issues, and the fact that she has proven her ability to work closely with Council and the community.

Mayor Jamie Ross stated that he is pleased with the outcome of the recruitment process and satisfied that the community will be well-served. "Paula is well respected by Council and her peers and has a good rapport with members of the community," he adds.

Power outages:

As our recent weeks of wonderful summer-like weather give way to the cold, wet days of late fall, windstorms and power outages are probably not far behind. Particularly as this year's drought (coupled with widespread insect infestations) has led to the weakening of many trees.

If there is a power failure:

- Check first to see if your neighbours' power is still on. If not, notify B.C. Hydro.
- Turn off all tools, appliances and electronic equipment and turn all thermostats down to minimum. This will prevent both damage to sensitive devices as well as the possibility of fire when power is suddenly restored. (It also makes the 'restart' easier when there is less drain on the system.)
- Turn off all lights except one - this last light will alert you to the restoration of power.
- Do not open your freezer or fridge unless absolutely necessary. A full freezer will keep food frozen for 24-36 hours if the door remains closed.
- Do not use charcoal or gas barbecues, camping heating equipment, or home generators indoors. They give off carbon monoxide which can be deadly.
- If using candles, never leave them unattended.

And, finally, here are five power outage 'tricks':

- Strap an LED head lamp (or flashlight) so that it shines into a 4 litre jug of water. The water will amplify the light to create a lantern that can illuminate an entire room. Place the jug in front of a mirror for even greater amplification.
- Light the pointy end of a crayon. Once the fire reaches the paper, stick the crayon in its own wax on a china saucer or plate. One crayon can last a couple of hours. (Never leave unattended)
- Bring solar powered walkway or garden lights indoors.
- To lengthen the life of your iPhone battery put it on low battery mode, close unused apps, put phone on airplane mode. If your phone and backup chargers are out of battery, connect to a lap top that has a battery.
- If you run out of AA batteries for flashlights, you can convert AAA batteries using a ball of foil. Place the ball between the AAA's battery's negative end and the device, thus completing the circuit.

A Hiking Trip To Lake Beautiful

Source: Vancouver Weekly News-Advertiser, Wednesday,
July 24th, 1889, page 8.
Researched By: Ralph Drew, Belcarra, B.C., September 2022.

"Five young men from the C.P.R. offices — viz. F. & J. Schofield, J. Bonltbee, J. Miller and J. Brown — had a thrilling experience in a trip they accomplished to Lake Beautiful [Lake Buntzen] and back. On Saturday [July 20th, 1889], they went to Port Moody [from Vancouver], from there to Tiffin's Mill [at Mossom Creek] and then struck through to Lake Beautiful, to which there is no regular trail. They arrived at their intended destination all right, but in returning lost their way and were about 24 hours in their endeavours to find the right way back, during which time they were without provisions and almost continually on the tramp. A party went in search of them but they arrived back in Port Moody in time to render an exploration unnecessary. The boys came home on the [C.P.R.] 'Pacific Express' all sound, but very tired and hungry and their wearing apparel a good deal worse for wear."

Lay aside arms
Put aside grievances
Have no favouritism
Love one another

Life is short and many are falling. I mentioned this last month, and that was before 3 more people I know passed, too many people are dying and that means many more of us here are grieving. It weighs on my heart knowing that so many here in our tiny Village are feeling lonelier. Hopefully, those who have suffered the loss of a loved one have neighbours nearby who can be there for them in times of need. Is it time to start a group or club for the widows, widowers and those who just feel disconnected? Feel free to email me your thoughts. pilgrimsinthisland@yahoo.com (DOT COM Not ca)

Can we talk? Can we be open? Can we be here for each other? Are each of us ready for our own departure from this earth?

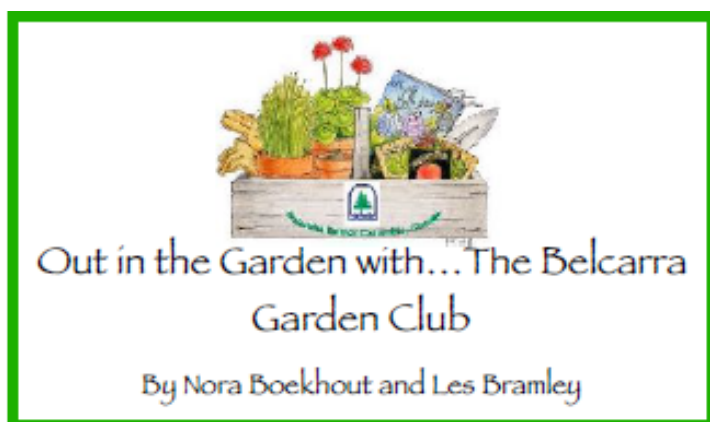

Here's hoping the weather cooperates for the Remembrance Day ceremony at Belcarra Park. The Port Moody Power and Sail Squadron ALWAYS put on a spectacular and impactful ceremony. It all starts at 10:30 am. We hope to see you there.

Let's talk about all the blessings that we are so thankful for, right here in our Village. I love to see the towhees, robins and other forest birds happily gathering and flying about now that the very hot days are done. Our mountain ash has been a feast for so many birds. It is a delightful sight to watch as they gather. Has anyone noticed how huge the acorns were this year? The fresh, pure white snowfall on the local mountains exudes peace and purity and, for some, the giddy anticipation of snow sports. How about the longer growing season? It is into the third week of October and so many colourful flowers are still thriving! I feel guilty thinking that any day I'll have to completely cut back my fuchsia and bring it inside. My beautiful dahlias, courtesy of bulbs from the Fentons, have never been SO prolific.

The peace of the Lord be near to you all.
Draw near to God and He will draw near to you.

You are loved and you are valuable.

October marked our final meeting for the season, and we celebrated by sharing seeds, plants, and cuttings! Let's prep those gardens for the fall and make plans for Spring 2023! Hope you join us!

Another kudos... some more Belcarrians sent in photos for our Canada Year of the Garden!

Les is ever the "go-getter" in our group, and he was inspired to do some investigating about our precious Cedar. He had several people ask him if they are dtreesying because they look so brown with all those seeds. They have been stressed by our long dry spell; let's hope they recover soon.

Here are a few facts on this wonderful tree.

Did you know that the western red cedar was proclaimed the official tree of B.C. in 1988? It actually is not a true cedar but a woody member of the cypress family. The Latin "arbor-vitae" translates to "tree of life".

B.C. has the world's largest supply of standing red cedars. It is one of the most valuable commercial tree species in B.C. It generates over $1 billion in economic activity annually and provides 1900 jobs. Although it has probably been in the Northwest for 50 million years, this species only became widespread in B.C. 4 to 5 thousand years ago, says Richard Hebda of the University of Victoria.

The cedar became the tree of choice to our indigenous people about 3 thousand years ago. Indigenous terms of affection include "grandmother cedar" and "long life maker." It was easier to work with (than Sitka Spruce) and offered them wood for homes, totem poles, canoes, paddles, nets to hooks, lures and fishing floats. Cedar's soft inner bark supplied clothing when woven into tunics, mats, blankets and could be shredded to make fluffy towels, diapers and sanitary pads. The vine like appendages that swoop down from the branches were twisted into ropes so strong they could haul 40-tonne whales! The roots were coiled into baskets tight enough to boil water on hot rocks. The green leaves that look like scaly braids were used for calcium rich medicine.

Pollen cones on western red cedars grow most heavily on the branches of the tree that are exposed to direct sunlight. Seed bearing cones grow on lateral spray branches typically near the middle of the branch. Each seed cone contains between eight and fourteen seeds. The seeds themselves range in size from 4 to 7.5 millimetres and are usually reddish brown.

The "seed fall" for these trees is typically October/November so we are about to see millions of them soon in Belcarra!

A Western Red Cedar on Vancouver Island, known as the Cheewhat Giant, is the largest known tree in Canada. It was discovered in the Pacific Rim Park in 1988 and is estimated to be over 1500 years old! "WOW!" It is 55.5m (182ft) high and 6.1m (20ft) around. The volume of the trunk is 449m³ (15,900 cu ft). It is the second largest Western Red Cedar in the world; the largest is on the Olympic Peninsula.

Many communities and organizations are looking to protect our precious old growth forests. The Ancient Forest Alliance and the Canadian Forest Service are working with our indigenous people, the government, and industry to make our forests sustainable. For example, in July the Kanaka Bar Band (a Nlaka'pamux First Nation) located south of Lytton, announced their vision to protect a total of about 35,000 hectares of some of the most bio diverse old growth in B.C. "Awesome!"

Let's protect these magnificent giving trees for future generations.

Happy Gardening!

Les

Things you can do for Remembrance Day

From CBC Kids website:

Wear a poppy. You'll usually see a lot of people wearing poppies for about two weeks leading up to Remembrance Day. This is to show that they remember and support Canadian troops and veterans. The tradition of the poppy goes back to the First World War. Many battles took place in areas where poppies grow.

Pause for a moment of silence. At 11:00 a.m. on November 11th, we pause for two minutes to honour and remember those who have served and continue to serve during wars, conflicts and peacekeeping missions.
